New Marker Placed At Old Grave In West Tennessee Near Here

A bit of little-known history was refreshed for West Tennesseans last Friday morning, with the placing of a brand-new marker on what is believed to be the oldest grave in Northwest Tennessee.

The grave is that of an adventuresome young man just 24 years old, who came exploring to the wilds of West Tennessee from North Carolina, died of pneumonia and was buried by friendly Indians just four or five miles South of Fulton, at a location now at the edge of U. S. Highway 45-E.

The marker reads: "Thomas B. Siler born March 25, 1798, died Sept. 15, 1822."

According to historical accounts available, it seems most likely that Thomas Siler and his companion traveled overland to Tennessee, boarded flat-boats on the Tennessee river and floated up to the Ohio, down the Mississippi and at last into the Obion, choosing the North fork and landing on its banks.

When they arrived about six miles south of what is now Fulton, Siler took pneumonia. His pal went after a doctor, the closest being at Columbus, Ky., over twenty-five miles away. When his pal returned, Siler was dead and the Indians had buried him.

The rest of Siler's family, who came from Pennsylvania, thought he had been killed by the Indians. They migrated to Macon County in North Carolina.

The person who put up the original monument at Siler's grave is unknown.

After roads had been opened and overland passage had become possible, a devoted sister of Thomas Siler made the long, tedious journey behind patient oxen to the land where her brother was buried, and had lived but a brief time. The land where the grave stands was, according to old deeds and information handed down through several generations of the Scott family, purchased by J. R. Siler of Macon County, North Carolina in 1826, four years after the death of Thomas Siler. The land was held by J. R. Siler until 1856 when it was transferred to W. S. Scott of Weakley county. The William Scott farm is now owned by Hootie Garner and Elmer Tedford of Martin, Tenn. The Burch Harris family now lives in the farmhouse near the grave.

R. L. McNatt of Dukedom and Dresden, collector of items of historical value, is responsible for the new marker at Siler's grave, and got permission from the Tennessee Highway Department to have the ground leveled around the marker so that motorists can drive off of the highway up to it for a look.

According to Mr. McNatt, former tenants of the farmhouse used the tombstone on which to crack walnuts and hickory nuts and it was finally broken. A portion of the old tombstone still stands back of the new one and is grown into one of the several trees surrounding the grave.

The new marker was put up Friday morning and present for the occasion, besides Mr. McNatt, were South Fulton Mayor Milton Counce, Dresden Mayor A. W.

Children's Pictures To Be Taken Free For Publication In News

Saturday, Oct. 11, is the big day for the picture taking of your youngsters! The News is having pictures taken of all children who are brought by their parents or other guardian to the News office between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m., absolutely free of charge.

The News wants a picture of your child to print in its forthcoming feature, "Citizens of Tomorrow", a series of photographic studies of local children. The more we get, the better the feature will be, so the cooperation of the mothers and fathers is urged.

It often seems to parents that children are little ones minute and are grown up the next, so fast does a child's growing stage pass. Here is a splendid opportunity to catch a likeness of your child or children at the present stage for the pleasure you will get out of it in future years and for the pleasure you will enjoy in seeing it in print. You will want to clip it from this, your home town newspaper, and preserve it for the youngster when he or she grows up.

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for taking the pictures. Parents don't even have to be a subscriber to the News nor even a reader. You do not have to purchase pictures either, though you may obtain additional prints by arranging direct with the Studio representative if you want them. That is entirely up to you! Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. Norma McClanahan, phone 470, Fulton, Ky.

No Blacktop Till '59 Court Residents Told

Residents of the Country Club Court area may have to go through the winter on graveled streets instead of the new blacktop they were expecting, the City Council learned Monday night at their regular meeting.

It was pointed out by the contractor that he would "hesitate to guarantee" the job if he finished it this fall, because of excavations made in the roadway this summer which were not sufficiently compacted when they were refilled. The fills are still settling in some places and would likely damage a finished surface applied to the street this fall, the Council was advised.

The excavations were made in relocating water and gas lines in the street.

Construction Work On Siegel Factory Expected To Start Early Next Week

Construction work on the new Henry I. Siegel garment factory building in South Fulton is expected to start "early next week", a spokesman for the South Fulton City Council told The News Tuesday night following a meeting with Sam Siegel and associates.

Actual construction will begin, even though the full amount of bonds to complete the job cannot be obtained until after another bond issue is submitted to the voters of South Fulton to cover the additional cost above the original estimates and plans.

A previously-okayed bond issue held on November 4, concurrent with the regular general election. Bids on the new garment factory were $60,000 higher than anticipated, and eliminating certain "frills" and other items that "can be done without" has reduced the $60,000 excess to $32,000 without impairing essential building features as originally planned. The building will contain Replying to some unfavorable news accounts reported locally earlier this week, a spokesman for the Siegel Co. told The News Wednesday morning that Mr. Siegel was much disturbed over the reports, and wished to be quoted on the following:

Mr. Siegel: "We have no intention of asking, nor have we asked, the good people of South Fulton for any more money for construction of the building. We expect to finance any extra costs of construction by revenue bonds at 6% interest."

"The Henry I. Siegel Company appreciates the co-operation of every individual in the community, and it doesn't want to leave the impression that it wants to ask for more than has already so generously been given."

New Businesses Open Up, While Others Move, Do Remodeling

This week one new business opened up in Fulton, while other local business establishments were moving to new locations and others were doing remodeling jobs.

Fulton's newest business is the Twin-City Home Improvement company located at 406 Main Street. The new company is owned by W. F. (Bill) Taylor, well-known automobile salesman for many years. His salesmen will be his father, Doy Taylor, and Vernon Robey.

Another new business, which opened only a week ago is the Budget Shop on Lake Street, owned and operated by Louie and Joe Kasnow, owners of the Kasnow Department Store, an institution of Fulton for many years.

It was learned Wednesday that Jackson Drug Company will move from its present location on Main Street to the building formerly occupied by the Rushton's Cafe at St. Line and Paschall Street in South Fulton. The moving will begin Sunday and will be completed on Monday of next week. Owners of the drug store are Dr. E. F. Crocker, Sidney Smith and Dan Howell.

Fulton High Bulldogs To Meet Morganfield Team Here Friday

The Fulton Bulldogs, with their 15-game streak of victories snapped by Murray here last weekend, will be out to show the world that they can play heads-up football against anybody, and chances are they'll need all of the determination and tricks they can muster as they meet the Morganfield Guerrillas here Friday night at Memorial stadium.

Fulton dropped from 11th to about 16th in State ratings during the past week due to the Murray loss, while Morganfield climbed to a tie for fifth place. The game will probably be the highlight of the Bulldog season, as well as being the last home game this year.

The Fulton-South Fulton game will be played here, but South Fulton will be host this year.

Both the Fulton High Bulldogs and the Morganfield Guerrillas have suffered only one defeat and Friday night's game may prove to be the best game played here

Mr. Graham was born in Fulton on Edings Street on Oct. 14, 1903. He is the son of the late James Ray and Annie Johnson Graham, pioneer citizens of Fulton and Hickman Counties. His father started the Graham furniture business here and Robert learned his trade at an early age, working at his father's store, as did his two brothers, Ray and Warren, while still in school.

Robert received his education at Carr Institute and Fulton High School, where he was graduated in the class of 1923.

South Fulton Wins Over Alamo Friday Night

With A. M. Dycus, Barry Strong and Murray Clark leading the way, the South Fulton Red Devils won a 26-0 decision over the Alamo, Tenn., team there Friday night. It was South Fulton's best played game of the season, as the Red Devils scored in every period for the decisive victory.

The Red Devils scored much of their yardage with their aerial attack, which was clicking Friday night, as Murray Clark, quarterback, completed 7 out of 12 losses. This was South Fulton's most effective passing game of the season.

On a series of running plays, Strong scored the first touchdown on a ten yard run, several minutes after the kick-off, Clark went over from the 2 yard line for a score, and Dycus was responsible for another counter with a 20 yard run. Barry Strong added the fourth touchdown going over from the ten.

Clark made one extra point and passed to Paul Wade for the other point.

Paul Wade, who was shifted from halfback to end in Friday night's game, played an outstanding game on offense and defense. Bobby Copeland played a fine game on defense.

This was South Fulton's third willing manner, no matter what the odds against him.

Besides making a record on the athletic field, he has succeeded in leaving behind him a clean slate in school work. His fondest dream is to some day own a dozen trucks and drivers wherewith to haul chairs!

Immediately after graduation, Mr. Graham went to work full-time in his father's store and two years later married Miss Nell Whitlock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Whitlock of the Balmston Community near Martin. They have one daughter, Mrs. Anna Hitchcock of Louisville, and two grandchildren, Dee Ann Hitchcock, 12, and Robert Lee Hitchcock, 4.

Martin is leading the Reelfoot Conference with no losses in conference play. Their only loss of the season was to the Fulton Bulldogs.

"My Loyalty Month" Observed By Church

Large and worshipful congregations filled the Methodist churches of the Paris District on last Sunday for the opening services in the fall loyalty program "My Loyalty Month." "My Loyalty Month" is being promoted jointly by the Memphis Conference Board of Evangelism and the Commission on Town and Country Work for the Conference.

Objectives of the Loyalty Program include the deepening of the spiritual life and devotion of every member of the church. Activities include every member attending at least one service in the church each week; one letter from every non-resident member during the month of October; and one preaching service by either a minister or layman in every church each Sunday.

Several score of Methodist laymen preached in the various pulpits on last Sunday morning. The themes for the preaching hours on the three remaining Sundays are: "My Loyalty to Others"; "My Loyalty as a Layman"; and "My Loyalty as a Methodist." The Memphis Conference expects to see increased interest, power, and devotion because of "My Loyalty Month" in October.

Murray Defeats Fulton Here Friday Night

Fulton's Bulldogs had their victory string snapped at 15 in spectacular fashion Friday night as the Murray Tigers scored a surprise 27-26 victory.

Two fumbles in the opening minutes by Fulton were cashed in quickly by Murray for touchdowns that gave them the momentum they needed to build up their insurmountable lead.

Bob Brewer, Murray halfback, scored all four of his team's touchdowns and all three of its extra points in a brilliant offensive exhibition.

With Brewer leading the way Murray scored a third touchdown in the second quarter, while the demoralized Bulldogs weren't able to put together a scoring drive.

Murray thus went to the dressing room at halftime leading the mighty Bulldogs trying for their 16th straight victory, by a 20-0 score.

Fulton regained its poise in the second half and came close to pulling the contest out of the fire. They scored 13 points in each of the last two quarters.

Murray thus needed Brewer's fourth touchdown and third extra point in the third quarter to stave off the determined Bulldogs.

Fulton's loss was by the margin of a failure to run the ball over for the extra points. Both its extra points were scored by Glen Cook on runs. The try point after the final touchdown and a possible tie score at stake barely failed.

Fulton got off on the wrong foot in the opening minute when it fumbled on the second offensive play after receiving the kickoff. Murray quickly scored its first touchdown on a seven-yard pass play from Stephen Sanders to Brewer.

We're the ones who enjoy the luxury of reaching for the phone when it rings in the dead of night. No tripping over furniture or falling downstairs to answer it. Union City, Tenn. Gets New Industry

The Transcold Corp. of Los Angeles, manufacturers of heavy-duty refrigerating units for trucks and the holder of contracts with the Defense department, recently announced its plans to establish a plant in Union City.

The announcement marks the culmination of negotiations which have been in progress between the corporation, the Union City Chamber of Commerce and the Union City city commission, since March of this year.

The agreement of the Transcold Corp., signed on Monday, was received last Wednesday by Mayor Sam C. Nailing.

Under the agreement, the city will acquire a site and erect a plant for the company, with the entire cost to be repaid with interest, in annual installments, over a period of 20 years. At the close of the 20-year period, the building would remain the property of the city but the company would have an option to renew its lease up to a total of 70 additional years.

Mayor Nailing said today the city will have to issue and sell bonds in the amount of from $125,000 to $150,000 to finance the purchase of the site and the

Kentucky Ranks 9th In LP-Gas Sales

Kentucky consumers used 155,672,000 gallons of liquefied petroleum gas in 1957. The Bluegrass State ranked 9th in LP-Gas sales.

National consumption last year was 6,939,121,000 gallons. Total consumption of all LP-Gas produced in the United States, including fuel sold for export, was 7,129,724,000 gallons, an increase of 5 per cent over 1956.

These official figures are based on a nationwide survey of LP-Gas sales recently released by the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

E. Carl Sorby, president of the National LP-Gas Council, pointed out that most LP-Gas sold to domestic consumers is suburban, town and rural areas is used for cooking, heating, water heating, clothes drying, refrigeration, incineration and air conditioning.

Use of LP-Gas as a motor fuel in Kentucky showed an impressive 20.3 per cent gain in 1957. Total for the year was 5,209,000 gallons. LP-Gas is used to power an increasing number of farm tractors, irrigation engines, motor trucks, buses and fork lift trucks.

According to a market pattern survey made by the National LP-Gas Council, 19 per cent of the LP-Gas sold in Kentucky went to the suburban market, 32 per cent went to small towns and 49 per cent went to farms.

Average Pocketbook Is No Bottomless Well

Where does it end? Once again the federal government is speaking of new postal increases for next year and higher federal gasoline taxes to meet the expected deficit.

Anyone who spends money for any purpose today knows that prices are constantly going up. The government doesn't need to point this out. However, if the government were in the same position as most of us, they would realize that there is a limit. The average citizen's pocket book is far from being a bottomless well of money.

When the price of a necessity goes up, the housewife can't go to the husband and say he has to bring home more money. She is forced to do without something else in order to get the necessity.

Every business man today knows that he can't keep raising the price of his product or service in order to meet his rising costs. He knows that he must find ways to cut corners and decrease his ordinary expenditures in order to meet the rising costs. Or else he goes out of business.

If this economic fact is true for the average citizen, certainly it must have some application to our governments. Maybe our congressional and executive leaders in Washington need to take a little closer look at what's going on in the cities and towns around them. Maybe they need to give a little more thought to the fact that our pocket books aren't bottomless wells.

The people of Harlan County and the entire Eastern Kentucky coal region knows what happens when the price of a product becomes too high for the public to buy it. Isn't it possible that democracy, like coal, is being priced out of the market?

When You Think You're Right

Many readers have the wrong idea of what a newspaper's editorial column is for. We take the occasion of National Newspaper Week for some clarification.

Some think all editorials should be a direct reflection of the majority public opinion on any given topic. Others think all editorials should be a direct reflection of their own respective opinions on any given topic.

And others think any editorial that steps on a toe, or disagrees with an opinion of theirs is a personal insult.

Most editorials are the fruits of thinking and writing efforts of one or two individuals. The opinions expressed there may or may not reflect a majority opinion. They always reflect the honest opinion of the paper which ever writer happens to be speaking. No more than that and no less.

Purposes of editorials are manifold. Editorials can give a pat on the back, attempt an analysis of news events, urge government action, praise or censure the actions of a public group or suggest projects the writers think would be in the public interest.

And no editorial writer expects or even hopes that every reader will agree with everything he says. Editorials written by a writer afraid to disagree with the opinions of others—majority or not—would be ineffectual, uninteresting and useless.

Editorial writers—at least most of them—welcome other opinions about what they write. Letters to the editors are sought and published on the editorial page—even when they blast the opinions expressed in previous editorials.

That's the American way. A man has a right to see his viewpoint given publicity. The trouble is that few readers are interested enough to sit down and write a letter to the editor.

Our opinions are as open to question as those of the next man. If persons who disagree would sit down and write their opinions and discussions about topics appearing in the editorial columns and send their "Letters to the Editor," readers would see a live-wire open forum come into being where every man has a right to express himself.

As we said, that's the American way.

Never thought the day would come when Joe McAllister would be bashful, but according to a report we received, Joe just absolutely would not go to the store and purchase his young daughter a couple of hula hoops. So to help him out, Charles Stafford made the purchase. What makes it all even more funny is that a friend reports seeing Joe out in his backyard trying out the hoops. What they're wondering is: Did Joe really want the hoops for his daughter, or were they for himself?

Friday we went out to take picture of an old historical marker south of town and while there had a look at some of R. L. McNatt's collection of valuable old items, which he had in his car. That man can dig up more things and they are all interesting and valuable. From a historical point of view. He had several old guns, one being a dueling pistol which belonged to the Mr. Woolridge, who built the Woolridge monuments at Mayfield.

Mr. McNatt keeps his most valuable items with him at Dresden and others are stored at his farm-home at Dukedom, which he plans to turn into a museum some day.

Mrs. Harvey Vaughan

The thirty-ninth annual community fair and field day at Chestnut Glade on last Saturday apparently was a very nice success from the large crowd that appeared to enjoy themselves so thoroughly all day, the nice exhibit in each department and the nice sum of money that will be used for the school. As usual the most interesting feature was the "Baby Show". Many visitors from far and near were present. A very large number attended the ball game, with Palmersville. The C. G. teams were not as fortunate as they were when they went to Palmersville to the field day there and won both games. The C. G. girls won their game by two points, but the boys lost by several points. Thanks are extended to each person who made a contribution to the success of the day.

Local Units Aid In Attracting New Industries

Local industrial development corporations are playing an important part in bringing new industry to Kentucky, says the State Department of Economic Development.

Results of a survey described by a department booklet show that about 35 such corporations in operation in Kentucky have built some 30 manufacturing plants and developed and sold numerous plant sites and several industrial subdivisions.

More than 9,000 jobs resulted from these activities and building investments exceeded four million dollars, with about half coming from local sources, according to the booklet.

It describes formation and operation of a local industrial development corporation, the history of this type of activity, and the success of four Kentucky communities in attracting new industries.

Also described is issuance of revenue and general obligation bonds as other means of financing industrial building projects.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

Freedom Demands Social Justice

By Walter P. Reuther,

President, United Auto Workers

The People of America are blessed with a fuller measure of human freedom than any people in the world, but we need to realize that freedom in the world in which we live is not a luxury to be enjoyed, but rather a weapon to fight with and a tool to build with. History has made America the custodian of world freedom, and because we are the strongest of the free world, we must of necessity be prepared to assume an increasing measure of world responsibility in the defense of freedom and the other basic human and democratic values that we cherish.

THE TORCH of human freedom raised high some 180 years ago by the signers of the Declaration of Independence continues to light the way as men struggle against tyranny and oppression in the search to be free.

We in the labor movement have unlimited faith in the capacity of free men, united in common dedication to meet today's complex and challenging problems and to build a better tomorrow. The prospects of human progress have never been greater nor more promising. We need only to have the good sense to gear the fruits of our developing science and technology to the needs of the human family.

THIS IS the first time in human history that the economic tools provided by science and technology enable mankind to satisfy its basic economic and material needs and thus afford an opportunity to devote greater time and resources to facilitating man's growth as a social, cultural, and spiritual being.

Free labor has proven a most reliable and effective fighter in the cause of both peace and freedom, for free labor understands and acts in the knowledge that the struggle for peace and freedom is inseparably tied together with the struggle for social, justice.

THERE IS much unfinished work in the vineyards of American democracy. We need to clear our slums and provide an opportunity for every American family to live in a decent home in a healthy neighborhood. We need to have the courage and the good sense to bring our educational system up to date so that every American child made in the image of God can enjoy the kind of educational opportunity that will facilitate maximum intellectual, cultural and spiritual growth. We need fewer pious platitudes and more positive leadership from both the executive and legislative branches of the government to implement the recent decisions of the Supreme Court and to provide every American, regardless of race, creed, or color, equal opportunity and equal justice in every aspect of our national life.

To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honour and immortality, eternal life:

But unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath,

Murray State Has 2569 Students

Murray State College has enrolled 2569 students for the fall semester, 258 more than the previous high enrollment of 2309 set last year.

The total, announced this morning by Mrs. Cleo Gillis Hester, registrar, includes 346 students enrolled for less than 12 semester hours and 2223 students enrolled for a full college load. Students may enroll for a part load until Saturday and an eventual enrollment of 2580 is anticipated.

Murray State President Ralph H. Woods said that the enrollment, which for the fifth straight year had exceeded by more than 10 per cent the previous year's, had about brought the college to the saturation point on student housing and classroom facilities. "In fact," he said, "Our most pressing problem now is providing faculty and facilities to take care of the ever expanding enrollment."

Rebels To Be Discontinued

Five months ago we publicly announced our proposal to reluctantly discontinue our passenger train service between Mobile and St. Louis.

Communities along the route served by the Gulf Coast Rebels were advised of our problem — fewer and fewer passengers and heavier losses amounting to more than $4,500 a day.

In the meantime, the regulatory bodies of Illinois, Tennessee and Alabama have held public hearings and have authorized removal of service within these states. No authority is required from the regulatory bodies of Mississippi, Kentucky and Missouri.

The trains will arrive Mobile and St. Louis for the last time on October 14th and in the passing of this institution, we are heartened by the understanding and cooperation which has been so generally accorded us throughout the territory.

When he came to Fulton in August, he left Mrs. Milam running the Central Creditors Service in Jackson, located in the "Crock" building. Their telephone is listed as 22651, but no one answers. Credit Bureau in Jackson told The News Wednesday that the "Crock" office is closed and its operators had "skipped Jackson".

An informed trade bureau office in Jackson advised The News that Milam had had most unpleasant business relations with Jackson firms, having collected "quite a sum of money" on their accounts.

Milam's whereabouts now are unknown, but there are a number of people here who would like to know where he is. Any information will be appreciated by The News at 470 in Fulton, or the Credit Bureau of Jackson, Tennessee, whose phone there is 76704.

costs for supplying water to the new additions in South Fulton.

Cost of the water line, city officials said, would be about $10,000.

Under terms of the agreement, the company will lease the building from the city and pay rent enough to retire the bonds. The company also has an option to buy the building when it becomes debt free.

This area attracted nationwide attention last summer in a successful whirlwind three-day campaign to raise $100,000 in an effort to keep the plant from moving further South.

Site for the new plant is on the Martin Highway just south of the South Fulton city limit.

GM&O Ends Service Between Mobile-St. Louis

Gulf Mobile and Ohio Railroad said today it will "reluctantly" discontinue passenger train service between Mobile and St. Louis on October 14. The announcement by Chairman F. M. Hicks follows authorization by the Alabama Public Service Commission on September 26, last of the three state commissions from which approval to remove the trains is required.

The trains, known as the Gulf Coast Rebels, operate one in each direction daily between the two cities. The Railroad made known its intention of removing them five months ago because of a steadily declining patronage and losses which it said amounted to more than $4,500 a day. A changing national travel trend, principally towards the private automobile, was attributed for the loss of passenger business.

In the meantime, public hearings have been held in Illinois, Tennessee and Alabama in that order, none being required in Missouri, Kentucky and Mississippi.

"We plan to incorporate the business as the Davy Crockett Broadcasting Co.," they said. "We expect to announce a program of expansion for WTUC."

Separate Crashes Claim Three Lives

Three persons were killed and three others were injured Saturday, Sept. 27, in two separate accidents on Highway 22 in Weakley County.

Tennessee Highway Patrolmen said Homer Allen McDaniel, 56, and Mrs. Veola Powell Davidson, 54, both of Trenton, died in a two-car crash three miles west of Martin and E. O. "Dick" Pinney, 52, of Gleason was killed when his car went out of control between Dresden and Gleason.

Seriously injured in the two-car crash were Donald Cope land, 18, of Palmersville and Jere White, 20, of Martin. Both are in Weakley County Hospital at Martin.

Velva Hawks Jr. of Dukedom was slightly injured in the wreck near here.

Trooper Bill Parrish said cars driven by Mr. McDaniel and White were headed toward Martin when the accident occurred about 10:30 p. m. Mr. White told police he was attempting to pass the McDaniel car when Mr. McDaniel began a left turn. Mrs. Davidson was a passenger in the McDaniel car and both were thrown from the auto by the impact.

Trooper Wayne Hood said the car of Mr. Pinney, a retired employee of the Weakley County Highway Department and a part-time night policeman at Gleason, went out of control on a "S" curve about three miles southeast of Davidson about 7:30 p. m.

Gaylor, A. A. McGuire, "mayor" of Dukedom, Bobby Matthews, South Fulton Councilman, George
Dodd, former owner of the farm, and his grandchild, Paul Westpheling and Ouida Jewell of The News.

Mr. McNatt owns a book entitled "The Family of Weimar Siler,

1755-1831", by Leona Bryson Porter, which gives an interesting history of the family.

In a letter to Mr. McNatt, concerning Thomas Siler, Mrs.
Thomas W. Porter, Sr., of Clinton, S. C., has the following to say.

"Your letter of inquiry regarding Mr. Thomas Siler, who is buried in your county, was duly received.

"My history of 'The Family of Weimar Siler, 1755-1831' tells of a son of Weimar Siler's who died and was buried in West Tenn., or to quote from the book: Thomas Siler b. March 25, 1798, unmarried, was killed in the Chickasaw Purchase, Sept. 16, 1822 in Tennessee."

"If you are interested in the history of the Siler family and the Western section of North Carolina this book may be obtained from the Franklin Press Pub.
Co., Franklin, N. C."

"Weimar Siler's father, Plikard Dederich Siler, and his wife, Elizabeth H. Siler, both of German birth were in Penn. in 1741. They had immigrated from Weimar, Germany. They moved to Buffalo Creek in Augusta Co., Virginia, where some of their children settled. Later, they moved into N. C., in the Piedmont section; among the hills of Lacey's Creek, near where the present town of Siler City now stands, and reared a large family. Weimar, their second son was born in Penn. on Feb. 28th, 1755, and as far as we have any record did not live in Siler City. At the age of 15 he enlisted as a drummer boy in the Indian War and was promoted for his courage. During the Revolution he fought under Francis Marion and John Sevier, at Sumter, King's Mountain and Cow-pens."

"In 1783 he married Margaret Rafferty in Virginia, whose parents came from Ireland. When their first child, Esther, was very young they moved to Pendleton,
S. C. Later they moved to Buncome Co., N. C. They had nine children. All lived to adulthood and all but Thomas married. The four sons moved to Macon Co. in and around Franklin and the daughters married. They lived in Buncome, one in Transylvania and one moved to Ga. All but Mary, the youngest, had large families. She died rather young in Ga., leaving one son, of whom,
and of his descendants we know very little.

"The other members of the family living in Macon and elsewhere have a family meeting each year on the first Saturday in Aug. and the kin from far and near come each year to attend this event. They have been holding these annual gatherings since 1853, and it is a revered institution in our family.

"There was no data, other than I have given, about Thomas Siler of whom you write. As I am spending the winter—my husband and I—with our younger daughcans of soup, two cans of pork and beans, cans of spaghetti, tuna and other food, I thought it time to ask a question or two. I did!

R. Paul is getting ready for an all-out attack. When it comes he's ready. He's taking no chances on getting hungry even if the house is swept away. Of course I didn't want to discourage his preparedness, he's taught that in scouting, but when he sat there most of the night with that pack on his back until it made me uncomfortable to look at him I told him... that's enough Bub. As if that daunted him. It didn't!

At bedtime I told him to put the groceries away, that we had had no Gonerlad alerts at the station, (and you know we'd get them immediately after even a suspected attack). With a heart of gold and a head like a rock I was a wreck before I got him to put his pack away. Well, he did.

But like as how the times I would put him to bed as a wee, little fellow and in the morning find him in bed fully clothed with even his shoes on, he did it again. The next morning when I went to tell him it was 6:50 a. m., and I was on my way to the station, I found that he's sleep walking again. For there near his bed, was his Daddy's Army pack, complete with enough groceries in it to last several days. And neatly under the cover was the Army belt with both bayonets... this boy, he's gone.

If I didn't know him for a sweet, lovable, prayerful, and family-loving little boy, I'd get the idea that our eldest child was a pessimist of a sort... or a gourmand... or perhaps a Civilian Defense director.
